To Whom It May Concern, 9-15905

As a smoker I don't believe that a nationwide ban on smoking should be enforced. To my knowledge there are no proven statistics on "second hand smoke" causing a significant number of deaths, if any.

People live & come to America because we have "Freedom of Choice". We don't need a government controlled country. In fact, government should concentrate more on the violence, gangs & drugs which are extremely more harmful by far then cigarette smoke.

Government should never have total control over the people or this country would be in a worse mess than we are now.

Sincerely,
JoAnn Carpenter
