Subject
Strengthen the Particle Pollution Standards

Administrator Stephen Johnson

Dear Administrator Johnson,

I write to urge you to support particle pollution standards stronger than those now proposed. The air quality standards proposed do not do enough to protect our health. Many, many studies have linked air pollution to premature death, strokes, and respiratory problems. These studies demonstrate the urgent need to take significantly stronger action to reduce people's exposures to this lethal pollution.

Stronger standards would save thousands of lives and prevent an even greater number of serious illnesses every year.

I urge you to protect the health of all Americans and set protective standards for particle air pollution.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Nancy Bennett
