

The proposed changes to regulation in regards to Charity/Sightseeing flights is not the answer. As many have already stated, why not enforce the current regulations? The proposed changes would put many small Aviation companys out of business. General aviation has already suffered so much over the past 5 years. Many of the FBO's that I used to frequent are now out of business. Also TFR's are making it much more difficult to navigate through the National Airspace System. More regulation is not the answer.
