

HF Radio meteorological information is my principal source of weather information at sea. To discontinue the service would be a major problem for most long distance sailors - particularly for passage making out of range of VHF and mobile phones.

The only practical alternative is satcom which is prohibitively expensive for normal budget cruisers and smaller vessels.

PLEASE maintain the service - at least of HF Fax and possibly voice.