

Comment Info: =====

General Comment: It is important to include people with developmental disabilities for consideration for compassionate eligibility. The labels have changed over the past few years. People with autism should be considered compassionate. People with asperger's syndrome should be considered based on gainful activity. Anyone that qualifies under the state definition of developmental disability should be given immediate compassionate eligibility.