

In regards to Benton County observing Central time. It makes NO sense what so ever for Benton County to Observe Central time. When you take into consideration the number of Benton County Citizens that work in Tippecanoe County, which chose to observe Eastern time, plus the fact that there are several school children that go to Benton Community School from Tippecanoe & Warren County. Plus the fact that the town of Otterbein is basically comprised of three different counties, two of which chose to observe Eastern time. It only makes sense that Benton County observe Eastern time. When considering the children, you need to think about the fact that some of them, the ones in Tippecanoe & Warren County, would not be getting on a school bus until almost 8:30 a.m. Eastern time & would not be getting off the school bus until almost 6:00 p.m. Not to mention any child that stays after school would now not be home until almost 7:00 p.m. Eastern time.
