

Your proposal to increase landing and take-off fares for airlines at peak travel times is ludicrous. PLEASE do not do this. I am one of millions who travels for pleasure, not business. I like to see my children and grandchildren occasionally, but am on a fixed income. If you raise the rates like this for morning (or other peak-time) flights, we who cannot fly late in the evening or at times inconvenient to our working loved ones will be devastated. Vacation arrangements and other kinds of travel will be quite adversely effected. If travel falls off, then the airlines will charge more, you charge them more, and then only the most wealthy or business travellers will get to fly at all.
