

Airline customers already pay high fees to fly in and out of certain airports. To add to that is stupid. The problem isn't the airlines it's the FAA and their lack of computerization and the amount of money they have spend (wasted) on bad technology. Spend the money correctly and hold those people who spend it accountable.