To Whom it May Concern:

The regulation OSHA has proposed does not work for America and is not possible in my place of work. This federal government intrusion will adversely effect employment, productivity, and worker morale, and will do nothing for the health of Americans.

The indoor Air Quality Regulation OSHA is too burdensome for small business.

The potential fines of up to $70,000 cannot be justified in even the most extreme circumstances.

They are yet another nail in the coffin of small business!

We want to right to determine our own smoking policy without any assistance from OHSA or the federal government.

The estimated costs of up to $65,000.00 to comply with this proposed regulation, with a separate smoking room vented to the outside is not affordable and does not make sense.

You must not proceed forward with this misguided regulation. American jobs will be in jeopardy.

Sincerely,

Manager
